

Summary

- The NSTX mission addresses the key physics areas of ST research
 - Confinement and Transport
 - MHD stability and resilience to disruptions
 - Non-inductive plasma initiation and current sustainment
 - SOL and divertor physics
- These physics elements define a set of requirements for the engineering design of the NSTX device
 - Engineering analysis indicates that these physics issues will be addressed